WELCOME TO THE 74TH NSLC

Annual Report

This annual report is unlike any other issued by the NSLC in our 74-year history. Rightfully so because the NSLC has changed more in this year than in any other year in our history.

We are steering in a new exciting retail-orientated direction. We are becoming a place where most people want to shop when they want to turn a gathering into a social occasion.

Throughout the past year our executive team worked closely with our Board to set goals for our company. We reported our objectives to government through the Minister responsible for the administration of the NSLC and diligently worked to exceed our objectives.

In fall 2004, we will introduce our new corporate brand with its rich retail feel. Gone is the NSLC Commission of the past with its product control focus. Hello to new and exciting retail challenges and rewards.

The better we perform collectively, the greater the revenues to the Province of Nova Scotia. These funds are then put to work throughout our province.

Have you been to our new liquor stores or newly-renovated stores? If you haven't you're in for a treat. Come on in and take your time – we're confident you'll like what you see.

We also will be soon introducing a magazine filled with useful product information, entertaining ideas, recipes and other joys of being a Nova Scotian.

All this work has been done to underline the fact that we are changing the way we operate, the way we serve our customers and the Nova Scotia public. The more we innovate, think in a different manner and serve our customers better, the greater the benefits to us all.

Enjoy. We hope to see you soon in one of our stores. Be sure to tell us what you think of our new look and outlook.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

"2003–2004 was a watershed year for the NSLC, one which has set the organization solidly on a growth path for the years to come."

Peter McCreath discussing licensee issues at Halifax licensee THE BITTER END, Argyle Street, Halifax.

During 2003–2004, the NSLC returned a record profit to our shareholders, the people of Nova Scotia. We have surpassed the financial target for the year, which had been our commitment to the Government of Nova Scotia. We recognize that our performance at the NSLC has a direct, meaningful impact on the policies and programs of the Government of Nova Scotia and we are guided in our own strategies by an acute understanding of our responsibilities in this regard.

The Board is convinced that the corporation's financial success flows directly from sound, strategic business thinking and well-managed execution. The business goal of transforming the NSLC from its historic role as a government distributor of beer, wine and spirits to a modern, world-class retail business driven by customer needs and shareholder return is certainly delivering results in the short term. But more important, we believe, is positioning the corporation to deliver solid growth and increasing returns into the future.

We are aware that many of the Board's decisions are public ones and subject to the scrutiny of observers. We point out, however, that while Board decisions may be controversial, the Board has been resolute in acting in a fair-minded, transparent and forthright manner so as to safeguard the integrity of the organization and its business goals.

Key to the business strategy is having the latitude to do what must be done to satisfy the most fundamental operating need of a world-class retailer – to understand, anticipate and respond to the needs of the consumer.

In terms of key consumer dimensions such as product selection, variety, convenience and value, the corporation made significant strides last year, increasing the store assortment by 30 per cent, vastly improving our stores including the introduction of cold rooms for beer and coolers, and continuing to add the many benefits of store-in-store convenience with grocery retailers. Transactions and visitations showed marked increases across the network. Our important consumer report card – the Customer Satisfaction Index – also reported over the first year of our survey that seven out of every ten customers rate their satisfaction with the NSLC as a nine or better out of ten. This puts the NSLC into the highest levels of satisfaction that are achieved within retail organizations in North America.

The Board is pleased with and takes pride in the new management team now in place, with their extensive private sector experience, to guide the organization forward as we transform the NSLC over the coming years. As a Board, we are working in concert with our President, Ken Barbet and his management to ensure that the NSLC becomes a hallmark amongst crown corporations in Canada, and one that will yield substantial benefits to all our stakeholders.

As a Board, we are committed to continuing to improve our governance practices in order to ensure that we are providing the best possible oversight, accountability and transparency as are required in today's business world. For example, this past year, we have re-vamped our audit and risk management procedures, and have established Board committees to oversee and review the Corporation's commitment to our social responsibility and local economic development responsibilities under the Liquor Control Act.

We are aware that our customer-focused approach to our business can occasionally present challenges to local leaders in some communities. We attempt to be sensitive to the concerns of local leaders. At the same time, our legislated responsibilities are to our stockholder and to our consumers, who are also the people of Nova Scotia. Our business strategy is research-based; our intent is to meet the wishes and aspirations of our customers.

Initial response to the changes we have begun, including to our store network, very much meets the expectations of our customers – as our business results would indicate. The Government's decision in 2001 to give the NSLC a mandate to operate as a retail business is the driving force behind the NSLC's new approach to retailing beverage alcohol. The support of the Government as we go through these changes has therefore been essential to the success to date. The end result is proving to be continued growth in the returns to our shareholders and increased customer satisfaction.

On behalf of the Board, I wish to thank our Minister for his continuing support. We thank our President, Ken Barbet – recently confirmed in that position by the Government – together with his management team and the full staff of the NSLC for their contribution to making 2003–2004 the most successful year in the history of the NSLC. The Board of Directors moves forward to 2004–2005 with optimism and enthusiasm.

Peter McCreath
Chairman
NSLC Board of Directors

For the NSLC, 2003/2004 was a year of extraordinary achievement

Since September 2003, in my capacity as acting President, it has been my privilege to lead the organization through an extraordinary period of change on the path to a new and sustainable future. This future is focused on transforming the NSLC from its role as a distributor of beverage alcohol to a modern retail business.

An organization whose employees began to embrace the challenges and the requirements of a new, consumer-first culture.

An organization that effectively began to respond to the leadership of a new senior management team that itself had to learn to work together and which it did with commitment and enthusiasm.

An organization that earned the trust of the NSLC Board of Directors that, in turn, provided management its full and unqualified support.

Concurrent with these challenges, the corporation recorded net income for the year ended March 31, 2004 of $167.8 million – a 6.3 per cent increase over the year previous and 0.6 per cent ahead of the targeted net income for the year. The gross volume of product sold exceeded 760 thousand hectolitres for the first time in the corporation's history.

Why were we so successful? Essentially, because of the strength of the NSLC's forward-thinking strategic plan to transform the corporation into a modern retail business. This single-minded focus on the business empowers the NSLC to meet every challenge with strength and confidence.

We increased product listings throughout our retail network by 30 per cent last year. We nested the new listings into a retail store environment that began to look and feel more consumer friendly. The products themselves were identified, in part, on the strength of new lifestyle consumer research being conducted by the NSLC into the needs, wants and preferences of our consumers.

The new listings, their in-store assortment and rotation were aligned in 2003/2004, subject to a comprehensive Category Management strategy that uses research, trend analysis and demand forecasting to anticipate consumer tastes. The results were clear and immediate in all four product categories: Coolers increased by 16.1 per cent compared to the year previous; wine sales increased 14.5 per cent; beer sales increased 5.5 per cent and spirits increased 2.8 per cent. Locally produced products also increased their share of shelf and volume in 2003/2004. The NSLC was pleased to support the first-ever Nova Scotia Wine Symposium during the year, which brought together vintners from across Canada to discuss how to further develop our local industry.

A world-class retail business needs a management and control system that integrates point-of-sale, ordering, distribution and administration. It needs a technology platform that can cope with the volume of business generated by more than 18 million customer transactions to our retail network – up 1 million from two years ago. Accordingly, the first stage of a three-year technology and systems upgrade began immediately. The capacity and efficiency of the NSLC central distribution facility in Bayer's Lake was increased by more than 30 per cent, introducing sophisticated wireless technology and bar-coding as part of new warehouse management protocols. Licensee orders, store shipments and inventory management improved productivity and accuracy as a result.

Management and staff worked diligently to upgrade both our wholesale and retail networks in 2003/2004. On the wholesale front, we appointed staff dedicated to servicing the needs of our 1,800 licensees, who collectively account for approximately 18.1 per cent of our business, or $79,600,000. The corporation is well-positioned to grow this business on the strength of improved ordering, greater selection and an improved understanding of the customized needs of this specialized business segment.

Our retail network continued to transform in a particularly visible way on the strength of a strategy of improvements in right-sizing and right-locating our stores to maximize consumer convenience. Seven new stores were either opened or relocated in 2003, increasing retail space and introducing new cold rooms, where customers can buy cold bottled beer and coolers. All were adjacent to Sobeys and Atlantic Superstores adding increased convenience for our customers and substantial sales increases for our financial performance. Our customers can expect to see substantially more new stores in our network over the coming year.

We are proud to be introducing a much-needed new brand for the company that better reflects our retail focus. It is featured prominently in this annual report.

The much-needed investments in technology, systems and store expansion were carried out while maintaining our Net Operating Expense ratio of 12.3 per cent, which is a credit to the entire organization.

On behalf of the management team at the NSLC, we look forward to continuing to meet the challenges that lie ahead as the NSLC reconfigures itself into a dynamic, world-class retailer. We are confident that the systems and processes within the NSLC are stronger and more capable of supporting a consumer-tuned organization. We remain committed to meeting or exceeding the financial goals expected of us by the Government of Nova Scotia in 2004/2005.

President's REPORT

About YOUR COMPANY

From distributor to world-class retailer

For 74 years, we have been Nova Scotia's purveyor of beer, wine and spirits. We are owned by the Government of Nova Scotia and we are responsible to taxpayers for profits that are re-deployed by the government for the benefit of all Nova Scotians.

That's what the NSLC has always been. However, any similarity between the NSLC of the past and the NSLC of the future begins and ends there.

The NSLC returned a record profit in fiscal 2003/2004 of $167.8 million, an increase of 6.3 per cent from the year previous on record volume of 760,155 hectolitres. While management and staff are proud that the corporation exceeded forecast in 2003/2004, we are no longer content to passively manage our franchise.

The NSLC is a corporation in transition. 2003/2004 was the next step in the corporation's continuing transformation from distributor to a world-class retailer. At the heart of this transformation is a single-minded thought and it is this:

The new NSLC will be one in which the needs, wants and expectations of the consumer are the core principles around which the entire corporation evolves.

This is a major transformation of an organization that began as a means to control and limit the distribution of beverage alcohol in 1930. The revolution to world-class retailing standards and principles is absolutely essential if the corporation is to continue to deliver on its profit goals into the future. This is a transformation in both culture and behaviour and, even now, it is clear that every level in the corporation is beginning to think and act differently.

We know that it will take time and effort to get it right. However, the Board of Directors, management and staff are unequivocal in our commitment to the challenge. As stewards of the transformation, as strategic executive managers of the process and as dedicated and enthusiastic employees who are the real-life/real-time consumer face of the new NSLC, we serve notice that the change has begun.

"The new NSLC will be one in which the needs, wants and expectations of the consumer are the core principles around which the entire corporation evolves."

It's about discovery

As any successful retailer knows, consumer needs, wants and preferences are unique mixtures of brand, product and service attributes. When we discover a product that satisfies an unmet need – taste, cost, look, history, usage, familiarity – the experience can be truly rewarding. At the NSLC, our Category Management strategy provides the navigating tools by which we satisfy the needs we know about, as well as those that count as discoveries and it is key to our transformation.

Beer accounted for just under half of our total sales in this past year. In addition to traditional ales and lagers, the NSLC listed no less than 50 brands of specialty beer last year, compared to 12 three years ago. The new taste, history and pedigree discoveries that are integral to enjoying these fine, premium beers have helped drive the specialty beer category in Nova Scotia beyond 7% of beer purchases where three years ago, they represented less than 1 per cent.

Our Beers of the World™ program is an unqualified success that starts with understanding the consumer and then carrying the insight through with wonderful product sourcing, pricing, in-store merchandising and product knowledge. The NSLC's single-serve sales approach in the Beers of the World™ category, for example, answers the consumer desire to experiment with new tastes and new beer occasions – like dessert – by assembling single-bottle assortments according to their own taste for discovery.

We are proud that the NSLC's Beers of the World™ program has been the best-practices model for similar strategies in Central and Western Canada.

IT'S ABOUT GOOD FRIENDS

The NSLC is a player in a very sociable business. Sociable used to mean a having “enough cola for the rum” on hand. Not anymore. Eighteen months of gathering and evaluating consumer research showed us just how rich and varied Nova Scotia lifestyles are and how our products might fit into our customers’ lives in different ways.

Friends get together

to share stories and experiences. Possibly a wonderful moment to share a new specialty rum, one of more than 55 rums identified to be rotated through NSLC stores in 2003/2004, many designed to be sipped neat (without mix), complete with a history and a pedigree as rich as any single malt scotch.

If that rum were to be enjoyed on the South Shore, by the way, it would likely be dark. Probably a white rum in Cape Breton and a good chance it would be amber in Halifax. That’s just the way we are.

The Rum Shop strategy was finalized and launched in 2003/2004. The “Caribbean Passports” to unique and legendary rums that was developed to accompany these products, are integral to the knowledge and discovery experiences that Nova Scotians enjoy – from kitchen parties to the satisfying reflections that follow a good meal.

The NSLC carries approximately 30 per cent more selection than it did in 2002 — now almost 3,000 products from 50 countries provided by over 340 vendors. The retailing challenge that comes with meeting a wider range of tastes and needs with expanded choice is clear: our customers need to find it easy to park, easy to locate a preferred brand and easy to enjoy a satisfying, convenient shopping environment, or our customer will never get past three or four favourites, let alone a richer world of opportunity and discovery.

That's where our transformation to world-class retailing enters retail space. A store development plan was approved in 2003, targeting a total network transformation over three to four years. New concept stores, renovated full-service stores and relocations have just started to alter the retail landscape in Nova Scotia. Our store strategy that combines high-traffic grocery stores and NSLC stores continues to flourish. There are now 18 NSLC stores with direct access, or adjacent to, grocery stores. Right-sized stores, in the right locations, with the right mix of product, service, knowledge and ambiance will allow the NSLC to deliver on its store development mission of getting to market faster and smarter.

The strategy works and is paying immediate dividends. A south shore location was relocated from a 1,900-square-foot mall store to the new concept, re-merchandised 2,500-square-foot location, and year over year sales improved 43 per cent. A Halifax location was relocated first from a mall stand-alone, to a grocery adjacency, and subsequently scaled up to a new concept store-in-store outlet. The new store is doing more than double the business of the original, located less than 200 yards away.

IT'S ABOUT easy

It's about NEW TASTES & GOOD FOOD

Tastes in well, everything change. Pizza to pasta to paté. Cut-offs to chinos. Beaters to Beemers. Rap to anything else.

NSLC lifestyles research gives us a sense of that process. That, in turn, gives us a fix on what we need to be, what we need to do and what we need to offer to keep pace. Even better, to stay one step ahead of the pace whenever we can with additional insights from shopping the world for product with our-vendor/partners.

Nova Scotia's per capita consumption of wine outpaced every other Canadian province in 2003/2004, increasing by 9 per cent over 2002/2003 and contributing to a strong increase of 14.5 per cent in wine sales. Most of that growth came as a result of the corporation's capacity to understand and anticipate changing tastes and to deliver product accordingly.

Our Category Management Strategy for wines includes a "Ladder Plan" that has had a clear impact on the range and depth of listings across the retail network, including our Port of Wines stores.

The Ladder Plan invites the consumer to enjoy wines at an Entry Level, an Occasion Level and a Premium Level. Each level is rich and varied with price ranges that ladder up with each level. Each level contains a sense of discovery and a reassuring element of familiarity as to brand and appellation.

The strategy recognizes that food pairings become increasingly important as one's wine appreciation grows and as one's palette and lifestyle needs become more complex and diverse.

The store-in-store concept with grocery retailers is a natural and deliberate complement to the Wine Category Management strategy, making convenience and food pairing central to the new NSLC retail strategy.

OUR NEW Look

The visual design of our stores, the uniforms our employees wear and the logo and signage of the organization are a reflection of the organization's values, goals and business strategy. In our 74-year history, the NSLC has not had a comprehensive strategy in managing its brand. As part of our new approach to the business we are introducing a new identity for the NSLC.

Conscious of the importance of the sea to our maritime culture, our new identity both inside and outside the store makes important elements of our province and culture the cornerstone of what you see. Inside customers will find images of Nova Scotia throughout the store as well as regional influences drawn from our coasts, our forests and our unique destinations. Locating the products customers seek is now much easier than ever before and the stores have more space and clear signage.

Our logo and exterior store signage is also changing. The Nova Scotia Liquor Corporation will now be branded as the NSLC and all exterior store signage will reflect this new approach. Important to this strategy is the addition of Beer, Wine and Spirits to our signage, which ensures all customers from here and tourists understand what to expect from their shopping experience.

Our new logo reflects the importance of the sea to our community by incorporating a stylized wave in its design. In addition the colours used in the logo add further character to our identity by using the colours of the province – blue and yellow – and the colours of grapes to reflect our business.

This new logo will be found on everything we do from stationery and advertising to store uniforms and signage. We hope you feel as strongly that our new identity reflects the new NSLC shopping experience as we do.

Throughout the NSLC's 74-year history, the organization has had numerous logos and store signage designs. Rarely have they been the same. The chart below shows the evolution through the decades of both our logo and our store signage.

LOGOS					SIGNAGE
'30s	'40s	'50s	'60s	'70s	'80s	'90s	2000-2004	Present

At our inception in 1930 to the late '60s, a period of 40 years, we used the provincial crest. This was fitting because the NSLC was a control arm of the Government of Nova Scotia.					In swung the '70s and the Commission had its own logo designed, which incorporated the Nova Scotia flag, our NSLC letters and even a bit of the Atlantic Ocean.
					In the '80s and early '90s, all government departments, including commissions, used the Nova Scotia flag and department name. Uniformity prevailed! While celebrating our 75th anniversary in 1995, the NSLC commissioned a new logo. The design was that of a champagne cork with NSLC branded on the cork, along with the inclusion of the words Quality and Service circling the perimeter. The logo lasted three years. In 1998, the champagne cork was popped and our familiar logo with the ship and nautical feel was created and adopted for use by the Commission. The same logo was also used for the Port of Wines store and Port of Wines Festival brand.

					In 2001, the NSLC became a Corporation and our logo had commission removed and replaced with corporation.

					In the fall of 2004, the NSLC officially launched our new corporate brand. The new design was chosen because it portrays us as we are today and where we want to be in the future, namely, a modern, progressive, world-class retailer. The colours picked for our new logo projects the image of fun and entertaining and reflects both the province and the products we sell, along with the maritime nature of our community. We think we have a great new fit with the new design. For the first time our logo and store sign will be the same.

DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The following is a review of the significant conditions, events and circumstances that had a bearing on the organization's performance in fiscal year 2003/2004.

On many levels, this past year was devoted to building the foundation on which the NSLC vision to be a world-class retailer will be built.

The NSLC is instilling a customer-first culture across the organization because our strategic goals and earnings targets require it. As a crown corporation from which increasing and sustainable profit is expected, a customer-first orientation has made it essential to invest in technology, convenience, service and product selection and to re-think our retail network.

The NSLC operates in a mature industry in Nova Scotia. More than 90 per cent of the province's population lives within minutes of NSLC retail outlets. Where growth might have meant expanded distribution through more stores in the past, this strategy is simply no longer sound. Earnings growth for the NSLC requires new approaches to the business; a focus on customer expectations; and a realignment of the management discipline and systems consistent with those of a world-class retailer.

Significantly, product selection expanded from approximately 2,000 SKUs last year, to approximately 3,000 SKUs in 2003/2004. Many of these were higher margin, premium products introduced to meet consumer demand that category managers were able to anticipate with the support of our partners and through NSLC's new lifestyles research. Inventory balance at March 31, 2004 was $31 million, compared to $26.8 million last year, reflecting increases in both the value and volume of product in the system.

The Beers of the World™ and Rum Shop programs continued to do well. Nova Scotia now ranks 4th in rum, 7th in spirits overall, in Canada. The NSLC now stocks more than 50 SKUs in specialty beers alone, up from just 12 three years ago. Products cycle through the retail network to maintain variety. Where specialty beers once accounted for less than 1 per cent of the market, they now account for 7 per cent.

Expanded assortment, improved in-store merchandising and product knowledge, store assortments customized to satisfy regional differences, and – in new stores – complete new layouts, has led to extended store visits. This has been particularly important to our wine business, which experienced the strongest year-over-year increase. Wine consumers have a desire to expand their knowledge and taste experiences and the NSLC laddering strategy meets that need as it moves from 'Entry' level, through 'Occasional' to 'Premium' wines. Nova Scotia's annual wine consumption is now 6.5 litres per person, up from 5.9 litres per person a year ago.

The NSLC retail network is an integral element of corporate goals and consumer strategies. It accounted for 81.9 per cent of gross sales in 2003/2004, slightly higher than last year. We continue to make our locations more convenient and productive. We continue to make it easier for our consumers to have a single shopping experience and we will benefit from leveraging the natural pairing of wine, beer and spirits with food and sociability.

We continue to groom the network to assure the right-sized store in the right location, realizing the NSLC's goal to "get to market faster, smarter." We added 34,654 square feet to the retail network in 2003/2004. All of the new space was either new construction or renovations adjacent to grocery retailers.

This is consistent with the corporation's store-in-store development strategy that will see the NSLC ultimately minimize our involvement in the real estate business and focus on our core retailing and distribution strengths. These partnerships allow facilities to be expanded, relocated or renovated at a significant savings in both capital costs and base rents.

IMPACT OF OPERATIONS & SYSTEMS ON PERFORMANCE

Management has achieved or exceeded its performance targets for 2003/2004 by ensuring that goals and objectives at the consumer level and at retail have had parallel achievements operationally.

As a result of the changes made this year, the productivity of the NSLC's central warehousing facility in Halifax is anticipated to increase by 30 per cent in 2004/2005. New racking and inventory management systems employ bar-coding and hand-held computer technologies to inventory, manage and ship product accurately and efficiently. Order accuracy has improved to 98 per cent, a 10 per cent increase. Warehouse capacity has improved by 30 per cent compared to one year ago. Inventory integrity has also improved, resulting in greater stock level reliability and increased inventory turns. The full effect of these changes will be felt in 2004/2005.

Warehouse operations and inventory integrity will continue to improve in step with concurrent upgrades in the NSLC's information technology platform, which began a three-year upgrading program in 2003-2004.

Ocean freight represents 40 per cent of all shipments received by the NSLC. Ocean freight costs were reduced in 2003/2004, and will result in substantial savings in future years. In order to further contain inventory costs, the NSLC began making preparations with local carriers to move towards just-in-time delivery. In 2003/2004, the NSLC began to evaluate carriers against on-time deliveries and to hold shippers to account for accurate and reliable stock shipments. Again, the full effect of these changes will be felt in 2004/2005.

We began streamlining local shipments to our retail network in 2003/2004, resulting in fewer shipments, increasing full loads and reducing costs.

NSLC management approved a three-year information technology strategy that began implementation in 2003/2004 with upgrades to head-office computers and the local area network. This has resulted in reduced waiting and faster processing times. An IT disaster recovery plan is now in place.

A move towards a private network linking the retail network to head office and warehouse operations will be undertaken in 2004/2005. This will eliminate the letter and fax reporting protocols now in place and add speed, accuracy and detail to the management information that flows throughout the system. A state of the art data warehousing system will come on stream in 2004/2005.

The IT strategy calls for the use of managed services wherever appropriate in order to maintain the highest levels of systems knowledge without requiring the NSLC to absorb unnecessary overhead, and focus resources where they are most required.

An improved Help Desk was initiated with call/capture capability that allows IT staff to provide more timely and effective responses to store managers, head office and warehouse personnel.

IMPACT OF HUMAN RESOURCES ON PERFORMANCE

NSLC staff continue to be the corporation's strongest asset. Our performance over the past year was due in no small measure to the enthusiasm of our employees and their commitment to the corporation's goals and objectives.

Staff turnover is extremely low. Twenty-nine new store management positions were filled from within, as the NSLC moved concurrently to better match the needs of the job to both the skills and orientation of staff applicants. HR protocol introduced best practices models to shape the nature and content of interviews to further strengthen store management.

Thirty-eight managers participated in store management training programs over 119 training days, engaged in professional development in areas such as merchandising, customer service, product training, cash handling and inventory management and reporting.

Consistent with the product knowledge requirements of a world-class retailer, the corporation worked to instill a culture of training, sales and customer service throughout the organization. A total of 618 NSLC staff participated in 22 in-depth product knowledge seminars in concert with 7 different vendors. This is a program that will continue to evolve in 2004/2005.

IMPACT OF TRANSPARENCY

A modern business knows that delivering its services well is only possible if extensive efforts are made to communicate its strategy and activities to its employees, customers, shareholders and all other interested stakeholders. For this reason, the NSLC began in the last quarter of our fiscal year to communicate proactively and openly in a manner not done before in the organization's history.

We began this process with regular news releases on issues of interest to the public and by releasing internal audit documents, which outline the challenges and changes required in the organization. This new approach is also evident in the accessibility to the media of the executive and the Board Chairman. More interviews and information have been released on the NSLC in the last six months than in any single previous year.

But this is only part of the picture. In order to be an effective retail organization, NSLC employees must fully understand the direction of the NSLC from a product marketing perspective and from a strategic perspective. Our new focus on internal communication with designated staff responsible for this area will begin to yield results in terms of developing this retail culture and ensuring all staff are moving in a similar direction.

The importance of transparency also applies to how we communicate with our customers. Our research has shown that our customers are uncertain about what products we are featuring each month since the NSLC's external communication on product information has been very limited. As a result, we have begun to advertise through radio and through increased use of print. We will be expanding these marketing efforts over the coming year to ensure that our customers are well-informed of the product features that interest them before they arrive at the store.

This focus on increased transparency ensures shareholders, customers, employees and other stakeholders are better informed about the NSLC. This in turn, will lead to greater understanding of the organization, create a retail culture, increase sales and provide better service for our customers.

Auditors' Report

To the Members of the Board of Nova Scotia Liquor Corporation

We have audited the balance sheet of the Nova Scotia Liquor Corporation as at March 31, 2004 and the statements of earnings and retained earnings and cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Corporation's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Corporation as at March 31, 2004 and the results of its operations and cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles.

The previous year's comparative figures were audited by another firm of Chartered Accountants.

MARCH 31, 2004

1. NATURE OF OPERATIONS

The Nova Scotia Liquor Corporation administers the Liquor Control Act, Chapter 260 of the Revised Statutes of Nova Scotia, 1989, and is a government business enterprise as defined by Public Sector Accounting Board recommendations. The Corporation was created June 1, 2001, by Chapter 4 of the Government Restructuring (2001) Act, via continuance of the Nova Scotia Liquor Commission as a body corporate. The Corporation is exempt from income tax under Section 149 of the Income Tax Act.

2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

INVENTORIES

Inventories of stock in warehouse and stores are valued at the lower of cost and net realizable value. Customs and excise tax have not been included where payment is due upon shipment from bonded warehouse.

DEPRECIATION

Property and equipment are recorded at cost. Depreciation and amortization are provided on the straight-line basis at the following annual rates:

Furniture, fixtures, portable equipment, other equipment and capital leasehold improvements	10%
Computers – stand-alone	33%
Computers – integrated systems	20%
Land and buildings	4%

In the year of addition, depreciation is charged at the full annual rate.

Land costs which normally would not be depreciated are depreciated due to the retention of proceeds by the Province of Nova Scotia.

ASSETS UNDER CAPITAL LEASE

Assets under capital lease are amortized over their estimated useful lives using the straight-line method.

EMPLOYEE FUTURE BENEFITS

The Corporation has a Public Service Award Program covering substantially all of its permanent employees. The benefit is based on years of service and the employee's compensation during the final year of employment. This program is funded in the year of retirement of eligible employees.

The Corporation pays 65 per cent of the cost of health care plans for substantially all retirees or surviving spouses of retirees. This program is funded each year by the payment of the required premiums.

The Corporation accrues its obligations under these employee benefit plans as the employees render the services necessary to earn the employee future benefits. The Corporation has adopted the following policies.

- The cost of the benefits earned by employees is actuarially determined using the projected benefit method pro-rated on service and management's best estimate of expected salary escalation, retirement ages and expected health care costs.
- The excess of the net actuarial gain or loss over 10 per cent of the benefit obligation is amortized over the average remaining service period of active employees, which is 11.5 years.

Permanent employees are members of the Nova Scotia Public Service Superannuation Plan. The cost of pension benefits is the responsibility of the Province of Nova Scotia and accordingly no provision is included in the Corporation's financial statements for pension-related amounts. The pension-related assets and liabilities are accounted for in the Public Accounts of Nova Scotia.

USE OF ESTIMATES

The presentation of financial statements in conformity with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amount of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenditures during the reported period. Actual results could differ from those reported.

FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

The Corporation's financial instruments include cash and cash equivalents, receivables, payables and accruals, due to Minister of Finance and obligations under capital lease. Unless otherwise noted, it is management's opinion that the Corporation is not exposed to significant interest, currency or credit risks arising from financial instruments. The fair value of these financial instruments approximate their carrying values except for the obligation under capital lease. The fair value of the obligation under capital lease was not determinable due to the fact exit costs were not known. These exit costs would be a significant component of the fair value calculation, as the implicit rate of the lease of 13.8 per cent is in excess of the current market cost of capital for the Corporation.

2005	$ 1,536
2006	1,536
2007	1,536
2008	1,536
2009	1,536

Administrative expenses include interest of $1,050 (2003 – $1,113) related to this obligation.

5. EMPLOYEE FUTURE BENEFITS

The Corporation has two employee future benefit plans for which it is responsible as described in Note 2.

Information about these benefit plans, in aggregate, based on the April 1, 2002, actuarial valuation extrapolated to March 31, 2004, is as follows:

	2004	2003
Accrued benefit obligation:
Balance, beginning of year	$ 15,003	$ 12,455

Unamortized net actuarial loss	(968)	(983)
Accrued benefit liability	$ 14,301	$ 13,035

The significant actuarial assumptions adopted in measuring the Corporation's accrued benefit obligations are as follows:

Discount rate	6.17%	6.17%
Rate of compensation increase	2.50%	2.50%

The assumed health care cost trend rate at April 1, 2004, was 11 per cent, decreasing at 1 per cent per annum to an ultimate rate of 5.0 per cent per annum. The Corporation's net benefit plan expense was $1,551 (2003 – $1,510).
